Fake prize fighting, as disclosed by the statements of Mrs. James J. Corbett and Mrs. Norman Selby, the wife of Kid McCoy, was the talk of the town yesterday. From the conflicting varus that have been current since Mrs. Corbett first accused her husband on Saturday last of indulging in a fake fight with McCoy at Madison Square Garden on Aug 30 there was a wide difference of opinion as to whether the charges of the two women were true or not. There seemed to be a general demand for the publication of telegrams and letters that might prove the existence of a job, together with a "squeal" from some duped poolroom keepers who might have been caught napping, before a final public verdict could be rendered. The domestic troubles of the two pugillsts, who have been sued for divorce almost simultaneously, do not appear to interest people half as much as the charges of Those of the great crowd of 12,000 or more spectators who saw Corbett and McCoy put up their hands in the Garden would very nuch like to get at the real facts, for, taking the battle as it was fought and as it resulted, it looked all right and was considered by a maority to be one of the best contests seen in any American ring for years. If Corbett and McCoy really did fake the fight, and their wives say they did, then they acted with extreme deverness, many eye witnesses aver, for there was no doubt from the exhibition by the men that Corbett outclassed McCoy, out-generalled him and also treated him to a gruelling punching which stopped him eventually. Men who believe the fight was on the level use as arguments that McCoy never was in Corbett's class as a boxer; that Corbett had a big advantage in weight; that the Kid had previously shown inability to receive body blows: that there was bad blood between the men. due to a fight between them in the Gilsey House several years ago in which Corbett was kicked in the groin and had to go to bed for a week; that McCoy was in much pain when he sat down at the end of the fourth round of the contest, that he groaned audibly while in his chair: hat there was no betting to speak of on the fight, and that as yet no big poolroom keepers n any of the big Western cities have let out a roar to show how they were fleeced, which would undoubtedly be the case if the bookmaking syndicate alleged to have fixed things had succeeded in placing big money on the Cor-

On the other hand men who have all along regarded the fight as crooked say that McCoy didn't put up anything like his best efforts; that he purposely missed swings which he could have landed had he wanted to do so; that he wasn't hurt enough when he went down from the final punch in the stomach in the fifth round not to be able to jump to his feet the moment Referee White had counted the tenth second: that the betting was suspicious in that it opened at 10 to 8 on Corbett and finally was lengthened to 3 to 1 in his favor as the surprist g scarcity of McCoy money was discovered: that certain well-known "surething," gamblers who are usually "in right" when any job is successfully pulled off in the when any job is successfully builed off in the sporting line were loaded with Corbett money and wanted to get it down at any old price. As a matter of fact when Corbett and McCoy were matched there were rumors of fake and a deal of some kind, but efforts to run the fact to earth were futile and it was said a day or two before the men entered the ring that there was "nothing doing" because neither could trust the other. Mrs. Corbett, who first made charges of crookedness, has told several stories. two before the men entered the ring that there was "nothing doing" because neither could trust the other. Mrs. Corbett, who first made charges of crookedness, has told several stories since Saturday which do not agree. Her first charge was that Corbett agreed to "lay down" to McCoy and that she personally drew as check for $2,500 which was turned over to McCoy; that Corbett gave what is known as the "double cross" to the Kid, by informing him at the last moment that the fight would be on the level, and that as McCoy had not trained he was, of course, whipped Mrs. Corbett has not produced this check, though requested to do so by Corbett's partner. John Considine. Mrs. Corbett has also mide the statement within the last two days that it wasn't Corbett who was to "lay down" but McCoy and that she personally drew a check for $10,000 which was to be paid to McCoy; that McCoy whrew the fight and that the job was arranged by "Eddie" Burke, a well-known bookmaker. Following close upon Mrs. Corbett's charges come those of Mrs. McCoy, who states that McCoy received $100,000 for throwing the fight and $22,000 as his share of the purse and gate money; also that the Kid had to post $10,000 as a guarantee that he would lay down and not administer the "double cross."

With Corbett on the high seas it was naturally up to McCoy vesterday to make reply to these accusations. The Kid, whose real name is Norman Selby, want to the Sheriff's office at 10.30 o'clock, accompanied by his counsel, Charles L. Hoffman and two bondsmen, who agreed to act as sureties on his bond for $5,000 which McCoy was required to give, pending the settlement of the divorce proceedings begun by the puglist and followed up in such a starting manner by his wife. His bondsmen were Moritz Brockman of 354 East Sixtyninh street and Albert D. Harton of 148 West Forty-eighth street. While the papers were being prepared Lawyer. Hoffman said that he would to-day make application to the Supreme Court for an order vacating the order of arrest because he felt sure tha weeks to take part in some fight if the opporunity should actse.

Before Selby left the Sheriff's office he was served with an order to show cause why he should not pay his wife alimony and counsel fee pending the suit. She does not ask for specific sums, but states that they have lived at the rate of $5,000 a year and that Selby gave her the further sum of $50 a week for her private disbursement. She avers her husband makes $300 a week from his saloon and that his other earnings for the past two years have been fter his release McCoy then proceeded to the the following answer to the charges of fraud.

I wish to say at the very outset that there is not one word of truth in my wife's story to the effect that the fight was a fake I twae a souare fight. They are hard words to use, but I will prove that my wife is not worthy of belief. I will prove that her story about the cipher despatches to Hynds of others is sily rubbish invented by a woman for revenge. I will prove all the charges made by me against my wife in my suit against her for absolute divorce upon statutory grounds, out been and will leave it to the public if I have not bee Lat (w days " been two women within the

betty badly shased by two women within the last few days. To be more specific, my wife says that I had a cipher code with which I informed my friends that the fight was to be a fake, and that she herself sent the message. The truth of the matter is that from the time I went into training until after the fight I never sent but one message, and never knew of but one which was sent at my direction. That message was to my old friend, Harry Hynds of Chevenne, Wyo. Hynds is a saloon keeper and an all-round sporting man. On the afternoon of the fight, on Aug. 30, as I was wing on the bed at home, resting up for the fight, my wife said to me: Aren't you going to st your friend, Harry Hynds, know about the light? I said: Of course. Will you write a slegram for me, saying that I am in good condition, and that I expect to win in ten rounds? She get a telegram blank and wrote, as I suppose, lust what I asked her to do, and then sent he message out by the servant.

Now here is where she will have a chance to make money. I now publicly offer to pay 31,000 for every telegram either in cipher or in larry Hynds telling him that I expected to win the rounds. That message was in plain English sent to ask the telegraph company to let me have it, even if only long enough to wome whom I am suins for discovery the sent when I will show that the and the standard whom I am suins for discovery the sent when I will show that the and the standard whom I am suins for discovery the same that the standard whom I am suins for discovery the same that the standard whom I am suins for discovery the same that the standard whom I am suins for discovery the same that the same t sent by me about the fight, and if there have really been any cipher despatches, such as my wife says she sent, here is her goiden opportunity to make money by producing them.

"No such despatches can be produced. It will be found that my wife did not think of this charge of fake in connection with my fight with Corbett until after she saw how much notoriety Mrs. Corbett got by trying to ruin her husband's reputation. Then my wife stepped in and concocted this story. Like all untrue stories, it is easily disproved by the telegraph companies, to whom I give permission to show any and all messages sent by me or her with reference to the fight.

"One thing I am sorry for, and that is that I didn't make all the money she mentions in her flattering affidavit for allmony and counsel fees. I did not make one-fourth of $109,000 on the side and the $22,000 purse which she said I got from the Corbett fight. I have no objection whatever to letting the managers of the club say exactly what I got, but as the managers have never officially mentioned what my share of the purse was, I do not wish manuscens have some officially, mentioned what my share of the purey mas, I do not wish to do so first. Inever made harf of $40,000 ont of the Maher fight I actually got only $7,900, out of which I had to pay in training expenses. There was white $20,000 out of the Maher fight I actually got only $2,900 out of which I had to pay in training expenses. There was white the $1,900 out of which I had to pay in training expenses. There was white the says I made out of the sharkeys inch, I actually got only 25 per cent of the $20,000 purse, and out of the $50,000 purse, and out of the $50,000 purse, and out of the $50,000 purse, and out of $1,000 had to be decided for any $2,000 instead of the $10,000 which she wentlines. I was dead broke when I went to train for the Corbett fight and had to horrow Rennely of the Twentleth Century Club, as he will admit If asked, so that out of my share of the purse $1,000 had to be deducted from the Corbett fight and the she will admit I she will admit I she will admit I she will admit I she will admit the she will be she will be GRAVESEND'S CHIEF EVENT. La Valliere Captures the Handicap for Two-Year-Olds-Barbara Frietchie Proves Herseif a Good Filly-Dolando Scores for Park Row Plungers-Two Jockeys Injured.

There was ample racing material at Gravesend yesterday and the events filled well, but in point of class it contrasted noticeably with the brilliant programme presented on the preceding afternoon. A stiff breeze cooled off the temperature agreeably but kicked up a lot of dust and worried the 4,000 visitors who made the trip from city and suburbs. The track was fast, but it would be stretching a point to call it safe any longer, as Spencer's fall of Tuesday was supplemented yesterday by the collapse of Bullman. It is an open question, however, whether these catastrophes were due to poor going, reckless riding or the erratic luck of racing. Bullman rode the prohibitive favorite Vulcain in the fourth race and went down while running last on the turn for home and not in touch with any of the other three contenders. He was boring in for a chance to steal the rail position and it is said that his horse carromed into the fence.

Vulcain went down with a crash but escaped almost unhurt. Bullman lay where he fell and was removed to Green B. Morris's stable in an unconscious condition. He revived later on and the doctors say he will be all right before bugle call to-day. Trigger had been making the running, but she could not stall off Big Gun's rush in the stretch and the rank outsider won the race by three lengths. Withers put up an argument for six furlongs and then dropped back to rear position vacated by Vul-

The handicap for two-year-olds, at five and a half furlongs, brought out a well-balanced field of eleven with The Musketeer a moderate favorite at 9 to 2 over Telamon, Silver Dale and Beau Ormonde. Tower of Candles at 10 to 1 made a dashing effort to kill off Telamon, out the Hanover colt smothered her inside half a mile, only to be shut off in turn by La Valliere, who closed strongly in the drive home and won out by half a length. Telamon secured the place by two engths from Scurry, while most of the others were barely heads and necks apart.

while most of the others were barely heads and necks apart.

The next event in order was a handicap for all ages, at one mile and a furiong. Five of the twelve candidates declined the issue and the race then looked a gift for Decanter, but he closed a somewhat weak favorite owing to a plunge on King Bramble. The latter tried hard to bring off the coup for S. C. Hildreth, but Decanter went at him like a bull-dog in the stretch and won by a length. Bangor found the route too short for him, but wound up full of running within a length and a half of King Bramble and just a head in front of Charentus.

All but one of the sixteen youngsters engaged in the dash for maiden two-year-old fillies turned out, and the talent divided patronage between Barbara Frietchie, Julia Hanover and Taveta. It was pretty close guessing under the circumstances, as the Fleischmann filly finished only a head in front of Julia Hanover, while Taveta broke down and limped home in the rear of the bunch. O'Connor on the 20 to 1 shot, Zenaide, had a narrow escape. The filly stumbled to her knees and shot him against the rail, breaking his left thumb. The plucky boy kept his seat and made the best of his way home in eleventh position. He reported to the stewards, who excused him from filling engagements until the injured hand is well again.

Dolando and Himtine, equal favorites for the fifth race, finished a length apart in the order named, after McCafferty's horse had made most of the running. Elfin Conig flattered the form students by disposing of the others. Red Path dropped into what looked like an easy sport in the race for maiden three-year-olds which ended the day's sport. He to St. Louis and furnish racing for six months every year.

Prince Poniatowski, the Russian sportsman who has acquired a controlling interest in the Tanforan and ingleside race tracks, California, was at Gravesend yesterday. His mission East is to induce owners of prominent Eastern horses to patronize the Pacific Slope stakes during the winter. He had interviews with James Rowe and other trainers, and incidentally enjoyed the racing.

Yesterday's results at the Brooklyn Jockey Club track brought about a big shake-up in riders' percentages. Spencer, still sore from his fall of the previous day, did not put in an appearance Bullman after riding two seconds and an unplaced horse, went out of business in the fourth race. This left the honors of the day between Turner and McCue, the former quitting an easy winner with four firsts and a third to his credit. McCue scored two firsts, one second and one third.

and one third.

Regular followers of favorites looked like winners, returning from Gravesend yesterday, but it must have taken plenty of capital and grit to pull them through. Their first selection finished ninth, the next one went through and their money was split up between three in the maiden filly race. These equal choices finished first, second and last. In the fourth event the good thing fell and the fifth found the equal favorites first and second. Red Path came to the rescue in the closing race and hit the books hard. and one third.

Handball Player Dies Suddenly.

Thomas Cook, a well-known handball player, died vesterday in the handball court of Peter Shannon at 1424 Gates avenue, Williamsburg, while he was teaching half a dozen pupils how to play the game. He was 65 years old and lived at 260 Eldert street. For many years he was prominent in Democratic politics in Williamsburg, and served a term as Supervisor from the Thirteenth ward. In early life he was a stevedore and later carried on a livery business. As a handball player he was in great demand. He passed much of his time in Shannon's court, and he had half a dozen young men as beginners yesterday afternoon. He had just struck a ball when he fell backward. He was carried into Shannon's Hotel and a hurry call to St. Catherine's Hospital for an ambulance brought Dr. Hoyt. On his aurival he pronounced Cook dead and expressed the of inion that death was due to heart disease brought on by overexertion. The body was taken to the Hamburg avenue police station and later to the dead man's home. burg, while he was teaching half a dozen pupils heat of the amateur road wagon trot were decided yesterday afternoon at the Empire City track and despite the high wind which was against the horses until they reached the first turn, and down the homestretch, good time was made, in each event. The first race proved somewhat of an upset for the talent, which selected the chesnut horse Pilatus, to win the 2:10 trot. He sold for $100 in the auctions, to $50 for Onward Silver, $30 for Greenbrino, $15 for Capt. Jack, $10 for Louise Mac and $5 each for Dollade Wilkes, Little Dick and Ellert. Driver Hussey managed to land Pilatus third in the first heat by a hard drive down the stretch in a vain effort to head Capt. Jack and Greenbrine, and that was the only time he showed in the first three. Many of his backers placed confidence in him until after the second heat in which he finished fifth, then they began to play Capt. Jack and Greenbrino. The finish of the second heat was a close one between Greenbrino, Capt. Jack and Little Dick. They were only heads apart under the wire in the order named. For the third heat, Louise Mac was considered to have a chance. She made a game fight for it. Starting on the outside. eighth position, she cut in for the pole at the turn and was right up with the leaders all the way. On the upper turn, Geers shot out of the rear bunch with Onward Silver. He got as far as Greenbrino's wheel, but the pace set down the stretch against the strong head wind was more than Onward Silver wanted and he fell back. Louise Mad dropped back to third position directly after passing the gate, and Greenbrino won with Capt Jack second.

UPSET FOR THE TALENT.

There was considerable delay in getting the borses started for the fourth heat. The judges suspected that Jimmie Golden, driver of Capt. Jack, was not trying to win. Their belief was probably strengthened by a "kick" that was made on the outsde, and they decided to take Golden out and put another driver behind the Captain. Myron E. McHenry was called for, made on the outside, and they declared to take Golden out and put another driver behind the Captain. Myron E McHenry was called for, but owing to his having a bet on the race he was not available. "Dave" McClary, Star Pointer's old driver, was called for, but he did not respond. Golden said it was the first time in his long career that he had been taken out and that it humiliated him beyond measure. He explained that he had been doing his best to win as he always did.

Andy Welch went to the stand and requested the Judges to let Golden go on; but the latter refused, saying that they had taken him out and he desired them to try another driver if they thoughthe was not trying to win. After considerable persuasion, Golden was finally induced to return to his suiky, and when the scales elerk replaced the numbers on his arms the crowd fairly yelled its ap proval.

The heat furnished another exciting contest. They were bunched all the way with Louise Mao in the lead to the half, when Greenbrino took a short lead with Little Dick making an effort to head the pair. At the gate, Louise Mac dropped back and Greenbrino won a close race from Little Dick, while Louise Mao just beat Capt, Jack for third position.

Daphne Dallas was made favorite for the 2:15 pace and won in straight heats, although she was closely pressed in the first heat by Connie and Idemont and in the second and third heats by Lolita.

The 2:11 pace was stubbornly contested and both the heat winners clipped some seconds off their records. Art Alco was favorite in the pools. Ambulator, Paul Revere and Gyp Walnut were well backed. In the first heat by Connie and Idemont and in the second heat was a race from wire to wire. Alco, Ambulator and Annie Thornton being bunched all the way, with scarcely a half length between them, Alco won the heat from Annie Thornton in a bruising drive. The second heat was a race from wire to wire. Alco, Ambulator and Annie Thornton being bunched all the way, with scarcely a half length between them, Alco winning by a neck. Gyp

At St. Louis.

St. Louis, Sept. 12.—The cloudy weather to day did not prevent a large crowd from going to Kiniock Park. The feature of the day was the hurdle race, won by Tonto, the favorite. The track was fast. Summars:

Matines at Readville.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—The Gentlemen's Driving Club held a very successful matine this afternoon at the Readville track. The weather prevailed against good time being made, as a regular tornado blew across the track. A large number of members were present to witness the racing, which was close and present to winess the racing, which was close acting.
Marette, who has been following the Grand Carcuit for the last month, made her appearance and captured the pacing event in good time, considering the elements that prevailed against her. In the fourth bout Loutle Failis won the first heat, but was set back owing to a number of breaks she made. The Wind Stops the Sport at Altamont.

Indian Prince Smashes Another Cricket

The redoubtable Ranjitsinhji has been smashing records again, the latest feat of the Indian prince being to beat the "Centuries Record" with eleven separate innings of over 100 during the season. This he accomplished in the game played last week at Brighton between Sussex and Kent, whe he played a magnificent innings of 220. Previous to this the record number of centuries scored by a batsman in one season waten by W. G. Grace.

The English papers describe "Ranji" latest innings as a perfect cricket treat. His 220 was actually made out of 28s, put on while he was at the wickets, and the brilliancy of his driving, the crispness of his cutting and the marvellous accuracy of his leg strokes frequently aroused a large crowd to the utmost enthusiasm, which found vent in almost continuous applause and cheering. Record" with eleven separate innings of over 100 during the season. This he accomplished found vent in almost continuous appliaise and cheering.

Ranjitsinhii has now scored 2,982 runs this season, so that he has every prospect of ob-taining an aggregate of 3,000 before play finally ceases for the year.

Manager Hanlon said yesterday that he expected to get Plicher Joe Yeager back from Detroit by the first of next week and that he will also try to land Denovan from Hartford. He may also try Cuppy, just released by Boston. In the meantime the Brooklyn manager hopes that his regular boxmen may strike a new gait. In to-day's double header with the Reds. Hanlon will probably pitch Kennedy and Weyhing. Kennedy said he had a lame arm yes terday, but Hanlon would not take this as an exuse.

McGinnity, the phenomenal Brooklyn pitcher, would occupy the box every day from now until the end of the season if Hanlon would permit him, but the latter does not care to take chances with the "Iron Man's" arm. Mccinnity is pronounced a wonder for work by every baseball sharp who has seen him perform. He is using a "raise" ball with an underhand delivery almost exclusively and Hanlon says it is more effective than a "drop" with the overhand style. More pop fly balls are batted off the "Iron Man's" delivery than any other twirler in the profession.
